The server is also the shop and billing system for the clinic. The medical head office is about 100 km away from our dental practice. I had been experimenting with different software options for several months, and when I found myself in the position to start a new dental practice I thought I would try out the Carestream Dental imaging software on a retail basis, and that has really been great. The CS 2100 is very user friendly and easy to start using. I can imagine that we can see great day to day performance on this system. One of the nice features of this imaging software is that they offer remote support over the internet using these 9600 Imaging devices. Tachycardia-induced cardiomyopathy: a population-based study.

Tachycardia-induced cardiomyopathy (TICM) is a recently described entity in which patients with dilated cardiomyopathy and sustained atrial tachycardia present with heart failure (HF). There are no published reports that directly address the prevalence of TICM within the general population. In this study, we examined patterns of HF hospitalization and mortality in patients with TICM in comparison to patients with idiopathic dilated cardiomyopathy (DCM). Patients with HF hospitalization records in California between 1990 and 2000 were identified. Logistic regression was used to compare patients with HF hospitalization and mortality in TICM and DCM patients, adjusting for gender, age, race, cause of heart failure, and year of hospitalization. The study included 58% women and 72% white. The groups were similar with respect to cause of heart failure. The annual rate of HF hospitalization and mortality was greatest in patients with TICM, followed by those with DCM. The risk of mortality was significantly higher for patients with TICM, regardless of cause of heart failure or gender. Mortality was higher in patients with TICM than those with DCM (age-adjusted odds ratio: 1.6; 95% CI 1.2-2.2) in the total group and also in men with TICM and women with TICM (adjusted odds ratio: 4.2; 95% CI 1.8-9.6 and 3.4; 95% CI 1.5-7.5, respectively). The prevalence of TICM is significantly higher in patients hospitalized with HF than in the general population. While patients with TICM have a higher risk of mortality,
